Hot Weather Tips to Keep Pets Safe this Summer

Keep your pet safe & comfortable during the warm weather

EUGENE, OREGON – (June 20, 2024) – With the temperatures rising this week, Greenhill Humane Society wants to remind pet owners of the importance of keeping their pets safe this summer. When it comes to furry family members please remember:

- Leave pets at home when running errands. Leaving your animal in a parked car, even for just a few minutes, can easily cause heat stroke or brain damage. A car's interior temperature can increase in minutes, even with the windows slightly open. Dogs are especially vulnerable to heat stress because they do not sweat in the way that humans do; they release body heat by panting.
- Keep pets inside during the heat of the day; do not leave them outside unattended.
- Make sure pets have access to water bowls full of cool, fresh water.
- When pets are outside, be sure there are shaded areas for them to rest in. It's a good idea to invest in a misting hose or kiddie pool for a cool place for your pets to play. Make sure your pets are properly secured and when outside have collars, updated tags and are microchipped.
- Limit or skip on exercise at the dog park during the heat of the day.
- Always test the pavement or sand with your hand before stepping out (too hot to touch is too hot for your pet). Walk early in the morning or late at night when it's cooler, carry water and take frequent breaks in shady spots. If you suspect your pet's paws have been burned, contact your veterinarian immediately.

- Dogs should not ride in uncovered pickup truck beds. The hot metal truck bed can burn your pet's paw pads.
- Oregon's "Good Samaritan" law (dogs / kids in hot cars) states the following:
 - Anyone – not just law enforcement – may enter a motor vehicle, “by force or otherwise,” to remove an unattended child or domestic animal without fear of criminal or civil liability, as long as certain requirements are met. To fulfill these requirements, a person must:
 - Determine that the motor vehicle is locked or there is no reasonable method for the child or animal to exit without assistance;
 - Have a reasonable belief that the animal or child is in imminent danger of suffering harm;
 - Notify law enforcement or emergency services either before or soon after entering the vehicle;
 - Use only the minimum force necessary to enter the vehicle; and
 - Stay with the animal or child until law enforcement, emergency services, or the owner or operator of the vehicle arrives.
 - It is best to always contact law enforcement before taking action.
 - Many electric vehicles now have “dog modes” or may appear to be not running. These vehicles may seem to be off but can have a climate controlled inside with air conditioning on for the animal.

Heatstroke symptoms can include restlessness, excessive thirst, heavy panting, lethargy, lack of appetite, dark tongue, vomiting and lack of coordination. If your animal is overcome by heat exhaustion, consult your veterinarian right away.

“With warmer weather on the horizon it’s important to keep your pets happy,” said Sarah Bouzad, Greenhill’s Community Engagement & Events Manager. “Your pet can still join in on your summer plans, just with their safety in mind. Be sure to take your pets on walks early in the morning and in the evening and leave them home while you run errands.”
